Gantry Operator

About the role

Need experience? Nope. Need qualifications? Nope. Need a good attitude and work ethic? Damn right!

You will be;

- Providing assistance to the Operations Management team
- Operating Gantry, forklift and other machinery
- Providing support to manufacturing staff where needed
- Following and respecting company H&S and corporate policies
- Getting paid, getting trained and getting a chance to contribute to a great team effort

RECRUITMENT

Skills and experience

You will need to have; … well, just a good attitude really

- Experience on Gantry machines an advantage, but not a deal breaker
- A forklift licence or experience a definite advantage, but not an arm twister
- Previous manufacturing or warehousing experience would be great, but not a stumbling point

- Able to pass a drug test? That's a given
- Right to work in NZ? Well, duh!

What you can expect

A starting pay rate of $22.50 per hour - but that's a 'full time, permanent' role - so comes with all the usual perks (regular hours, holiday pay, sick pay, statutory days off or pay, etc.)

Around 40 - 45 hours a week with some flexibility around working hours if required, but ideally 7.30am - 5pm. This is a great opportunity for someone looking to build on their career with a very rewarding company who like to up-skill and promote within their business.
